CALL FOR TRANSNATIONAL & TRANSLATIONAL RESEARCH IN THE FIELD OF ANTIMICROBIAL RESISTANCE

The Joint Programming Initiative on Antimicrobial Resistance

(JPIAMR) aims to combine the resources, infrastructures and research strengths of multiple countries in order to overcome antibiotic resistance.

This call is looking for proposals, which will repurpose neglected antibiotics and characterise antibiotics, or antibiotic and non-antibiotic combinations to overcome bacterial antibiotic resistance.

The aim is to sustain defence against AMR in human and animal health by:

- Reviving Neglected and Disused AntiBiotics (ND-AB)
- Designing combinations of ND-AB and antibiotic
- Designing combinations of ND-AB and non-antibiotic

The activity of ND-AB and the synergy of the combinations of ND-AB with other antibiotics and non-antibiotic should be validated by testing for activity/synergy in vitro and in validated animal models with pharmacokinetic/ pharmacodynamic (PK/PD) analysis.

ELIGIBILITY

Applicants must adhere to the specific regulations of the participating national funding organisations. Maximum project duration is three years. Each transnational consortium submitting a proposal must involve:

- Min three eligible partners from participating funding countries
- Max six countries/project participants
- Max two partners of the same country per consortium
- Project participants not eligible to be funded may be involved in projects if they secure their own funding and if their added value is clearly demonstrated.

DEADLINES

CALL OPENS:
17 March 2015

DEADLINE
STEP 1:
12 May 2015
(17:00 CET)

DEADLINE
