

Wecity

is a Benefit Corporation that encourages active and sustainable mobility by stimulating the achievement of socio-environmental goals among citizens and employees through its mobile app used by Public Administrations and companies.

The app is able to record the user's displacements by recognizing the vehicle used thanks to an algorithm, also in intermodal situations, collecting data on the matter.

The company is interested in engaging especially in mobility projects focused on emissions' reduction, or generally in projects where it can make its technology available for the common good of European urban environments.

Wecity is seeking an open partnership and partners willing to cooperate on these issues in Italy and across Europe.
